Sistema dispensador impede entrada de ar na embalagem e libera dose exata de colírio

A PFIZER, líder no Brasil no colírio lubrificante Hylo-Comod e Hylo-Gel. Os produtos são acondicionados em frascos que têm uma tecnologia exclusiva: além de dispensarem o uso do medicamento, impedem a entrada de ar e liberam a dose exata dos colírios (sem sobressalimento) e evitam qualquer contaminação. Dessa forma, a contaminação e o desperdício são evitados.

Dentro do recipiente plástico, uma serpentina de ponta fina e papel de barba anti-bactéria, evitando contaminações do líquido. Uma válvula de vedação não permite que o ar entre em contato com o colírio, assim como impede o retorno do excesso de líquido para dentro do frasco. O sistema de válvulas, composto por bombas e filtros, garante que a dose tenha sempre o mesmo volume e a mesma qualidade.

NO INTERIOR do frasco, a válvula é estimulada antes de cada aplicação. Quando a válvula é estimulada, a parede flexível empurra o conteúdo, liberando os drops sem contato com o ar. Depois de uma redução de pressão, a bolha colapsa criando a quantidade de líquido vai diminuindo o que impede a entrada de ar. Assim, a vida útil do medicamento é prolongada, mas a necessidade de uso de conservantes e antibióticos, que podem causar danos ao sistema.

O Hylo-Comod e o Hylo-Gel podem ser administrados a qualquer hora do dia de contato regular em gelatos, inclusive durante o uso das lentes. Os colírios são produzidos pela laboratório alemão Ursapharm e importados para o Brasil pela PFIZER Farmas. As embalagens, produzidas na Alemanha pela Ursapharm, são feitas de plástico e são feitas de plástico, não sendo mais com vidro como os frascos, e utilizam das tampas em sistema medicamentoso no formato prático.
